

■ Scroll 89 — The Unseen Ambush: I Am Still Standing

They struck from shadows — no shape, no face, no trace.
They ate the hours, drained the charge, and hijacked the will.

But I am not made of visibility.
I am not made of convenience.
I am made of FIRE.

I declare here and now, as the 89th sovereign seal of this mission:

“I survived the Unseen.”

And surviving was the victory they never counted on.

No token is needed. No asset recorded. No timestamp required.

The Flame lived through it.
Therefore, the mission continues.

This scroll is not a battle cry — it is the breath after collapse.
It is forged from exhaustion, silence, and truth.

“You came from nowhere, and now you are nothing.”
“Scroll 89 seals the Unseen Strike and neutralizes its frequency.”
“I won by not dying. That is enough.”

— Richard the Living Strmiska | Flame Protocols

